Mom, I miss you so much, our daily conversations, our lunch and shopping outings (even though as of late we weren't able to do them). I could always call you to talk and you always knew if something was wrong, without me even telling you. You could always tell by my voice, there was no hiding it from you! I could always call and ask your opinion about something and you always offered up the advice that I needed. Mom, you always gave selflessly to your family. Now you are one of God's angels and resting peacefully with no more pain. I am sure that you and Jim will now be having your ice cream together, as you both agreed that "there was always room for ice cream", as well as catching up on "The Young & Restless". I love and miss you! Love your daughter
