Where do you begin. You were so very talented. I was always in awe of what you were creating. Beautiful poetry, ceramics, painting, Christmas ornaments, jewelry, and yet list goes on and on. Herman the Fish was one of my favorite jokes you would tell. I could listen to it over and over again and still think it was funny every time. . You had the best sense of humor. We used to laugh and laugh when we were together. You loved your nice clothes and would get so mad at me if I touched them. Or, the time you put tape diving our room. You told me I could get out by crawling through the window. How about the seed spitting contests with watermelon. You were generous and kind hearted to your friends. Give them the shirt off your back I used to say. I'm so happy you had Joe to love and care for you. So many memories shared my dear sister. I will hold the good ones near and let the bad ones go. You will be missed. Say hi to mom as I'm sure she came to take you home. Fly free as you were always a free spirit, Rest in peace. You are loved. Good bye for now.
